Higashi's first movement, after be ing beaten by Swanson, was toward a cable office. There he sent a message to a Japanese gentleman weighing over two hundred pounds, and said to be the best jiu-jitsu man in Japan, begging him to start for America at once to vindicate the honor of Japan.

I don't know what arguments Hirashi used, but they must have been which arrived next day, said that the two hundred pounder was most honor-

HESE bonebreakers will be all weight. But a few months ago he wrestled Champion Jenkins in private for a bet of $1,000 a side, in seal, hard money, actually placed in the keeping of a reputable stakeholder. Little Beell nearly tore Jenkins to pieces during a couple of hours of furious wrestling that looked more like fighting. It was only by the merest scratch that big Tom at last gained a fall, then another one, and the match.

By the way, why do so many learned sporting writers speak of our American intercollegiate football game as Rugby?

Rugby, if you please, is not the American game as played in our colleges at all, but a very different proposition. It is the old English game, Rugby and Association are as "English" as monocles and spatts.

Some Englishman, once desiring to compliment the American college game, compliment the special match games.

ingly as "the American Rugby." He would probably have called baseball "the American cricket." But baseball isn't cricket, and until baseball becomes cricket our great American game of football will not be Rugby.

As for this "socker" game, it is as innocuous beside the American article as the "pie" they goldbrick you with in the English railway stations is beside the rhapsodies in pumpkin or mincement they stuff into you at a New England Thanksgiving dinner.

Imback in the game against Penn on Saturday.

Lockwood's non-appearance on the varsity before last Monday can be explained in only one way—Harvard had too many other candidates. Lockwood played on the scrub and played well. But somehow his work didn't show up until Carr. Paul and Guild all got injured and he found himself for the first time in fast company. Then the coaches realized what 180 pounds with a speed of ten seconds to the 100 yards can do.

PLANNING 20-ROUND BOUTS.

BY JOHN POLLOCK. Not being satisfied with holding sixround bouts in Fhiladelphia and the adjacent towns, a number of prominent made arrangements to hold twenty-round fights at Tuxedo Park, Pa. which business men of the Quaker City have is located just outside of Philadelphia and in Delaware County, where boxing bouts of a longer period are permitted to be held. The promoters of these to be held. The promoters of these long-distance bouts have had their club incorporated in the State of Pennsylvania under the title of the Tuxedo Park Association and have a capital of 1000 and 1.000 acres of land in Eelaware County upon which a club-house will be erected which will accommodate 4.200 spectators.

Mike Schreck, the Cincinnati middleweight, met Jack Crawford, of Australia, in a limited-round bout at Hot Springs. Ask., last Monday night. In the second round Schreck floored Crawford with a right-hand schreck floored Crawford with a right-hall swing on the jaw. At the same time Sohreck struck Crawford while he was on his knees. The referee then stopped the bout and declared Crawford the winner on a foul. Sohreck losine his temper, rushed at the referee and floored him with a blow on the jaw.

Govern, was asked to-day if he would let be held in the N. Y. A. C. tank from McCovern fight Corbett before the new club Feb. 19 to 25, when the United States he said: "I have not met Matchmaker Rocap as yet, but if he suggests matching Corbett with McGovern I will have to declin the offer. As I have said before, McGovern wants to fight Battling Nelson first, and it Rocap can get Nelson I will make the match If Nelson refuses to fight, then I will arrange a match for Terry with Abe Attell."
